A brick wall is 99.999% empty space.

Sugar is not sweet - it just tastes that way.

Thunder is silent - unless you're there to hear it.

Roses are not red - until someone tells you they are.

A lover's kiss is illusion no matter how passionate it feels.

Every conscious action starts before you think of doing it.

Humans are things that think they know things.

What kind of reality can you reason that to be?

What kind of existence might oblivion be?

Whatever you think, it may be wrong.
